On Monday, the Council of Priests will meet in Oban. These represent the priests and deacons of the Diocese and will discuss various matters with the Bishop.

From Tuesday to Thursday, all the priests of the Diocese will meet in Oban. There they will hear talks given by Father James Crampsey, a Jesuit priest, born in Glasgow, and living and working in Edinburgh for the last eight years. He taught for twelve years at Heythrop College after receiving his doctorate in New Testament studies in Nashville, Tennessee. He served the statutory six years as the Jesuit Provincial of Great Britain, and between then and coming to Edinburgh, he was parish priest in the multi-religious and multi-ethnic part of London called Southall. We look forward to his talks!

We pray for our Faithful Departed, especially those whose anniversaries are about this time: Joe McHugh, Helen Strain, Rosemary Haggerty, John MacLellan, Sarah Sidgwick, Bridie MacDonald, Cathy MacDonell, Sandy MacFarlane, Margaret Cameron, Peter MacFarlane and Margaret MacDonald. May their souls and the souls of all the Faithful Departed through the mercy of God rest in peace.

This being the last week of the month, Holy Communion will be brought to the housebound from Monday onwards.

October Devotions will soon be with us! Please try to take part!
